Our Founder
Sir Auckland Colvin
K.C.S.I., K.C.M.G., C.I.E.

OUR FOUNDER

Sir Auckland Colvin, KCSI, KCMG, CIE was a British civil servant and colonial administrator who served in various high-ranking positions in Egypt and British India during the late 19th and early 20th centuries.

He was born at Calcutta on 8 March, 1838, being the third son of the ten children of John Russell Colvin, by his wife Emma Sophia. Three of his brothers, Bazett Wetenhall Colvin, Elliott Graham Colvin and Sir Walter Mytton Colvin had passed distinguished careers in India. A fourth brother, Clement Sneyd Colvin, was secretary of the Public Works Department of the India Office, in London.

Sir Auckland was born when his father was Private Secretary to George Eden, first Earl of Auckland, then Governor General of India, and was named after him. In retirement, Sir Auckland wrote the Biography of his father who rose to become the Lieutenant Governor of the North Western Provinces and died in the Mutiny of 1857.

He was educated at Eton from 1850 and from 1854 at the East India College. He married Charlotte Elizabeth Herbert on 4 August, 1859. He had a son, who died in infancy, and 4 daughters. He died on 24 March, 1908 at Suffolk House, Maple Road, Surbiton where he was living with his eldest daughter, Emma Sophia Groome, and was laid to rest at Earl Soham, Framlingham.

Sir Auckland arrived in India on 17 January, 1858 and was posted to the Agra provinces. After serving the usual district novitiate, he returned to the headquarters in May 1864 as under secretary in the Home and afterwards in the Foreign Departments of the Government of India. He returned to his own province in July 1869 as a settlement officer and did good work in the revision of the Allahabad district settlement. He officiated as secretary to the Government of the North Western Provinces in April 1873 and from the following June as Commissioner of Excise and Stamps. The Lieutenant Governor, Sir George Couper, resented some criticism of the local government in The Pioneer (Allahabad), which was attributed to Colvin's pen, or inspiration. In the spring of 1877, Couper sent Sir Auckland back to district work as Collector of Basti. From November 1877, he officiated for a short while as Commissioner of Inland Customs under the Government of India, and was afterwards made Collector of Bijnaur.

When Lord Cromer became British Agent in Egypt, Sir Auckland succeeded him as the financial member of the Viceroy's Council in India in August 1883. There were serious financial difficulties. The war in upper Burma had started. The danger of hostilities with Russia, consequent upon the Panjdeh Incident, were followed by great capital outlay on improving the strategic position of the North West Frontier and by increases in the British and native armies. Colvin minuted against this increase but the military component in the Viceroy's Council did not listen to him. Although he caused a committee to be appointed under Sir Charles Eliott to recommend economies, he was compelled to suspend the Famine Insurance Fund and increase the taxation. In his last budget (1887-88), he increased the salt duty by 25% and imposed an export duty on petroleum.

Sir Auckland welcomed his transfer on 21 November 1887 to Allahabad as Lieutenant Governor of the North-Western Provinces and Chief Commissioner of Oudh from 1887 to 1889, succeeding Sir Alfred Comyn Lyall. To his influence were due good water supplies and drainage systems in the larger towns of what were by then known as the United Provinces, several new hospitals and the Colvin Taluqdars' College at Lucknow. During his tenure, he made efforts to micro-manage the local administration and implement several economic and social reforms. He was also involved in dealing with the social and political challenges of the time. Colvin's contributions to British India's administration were significant, and he left quite a mark on the region during his service.

The construction of the school started early in 1881. With the introduction of the wards class in 1884, the school began to grow and was established formally in 1889. Henry George Impey Siddons became the first Principal.

Colvin recognized the importance of education and sought to improve educational opportunities in the region. He provided support and resources for the establishment of the school, which was initially intended to cater to the educational needs of the Taluqdars, who were landowners and revenue collectors in Oudh. The school was named after him to honor his contribution.

Over the years, Colvin Taluqdars' College has grown and evolved into a prestigious educational institution in Lucknow, providing contemporary education to the students.

Colvin Taluqdars' College was established in 1889. It has been the vanguard of western education in Northern India. Established to provide education to the children of privilege, the College has adapted to an egalitarian society, brought about by the Independence of India in 1947. As a result, the College boasts of a tradition of nobility, blended with all that is noble in modern India.

The aristocratic privilege, once regarded as a prerequisite for admission to the College has now been replaced by merit, which is the hallmark of modern aristocracy. In keeping with its traditions and the requirement of a global world, the English language continues to be the medium of instruction. This is to ensure that the present generation is advantaged and finds itself equipped to take up international responsibilities, requiring fluency in the English language.

The general atmosphere is avowedly secular, while the belief systems of all faiths are equally respected. A cosmopolitan mixture of students from different strata of modern society provides an atmosphere of tolerance and practical awareness. This simultaneously ensures that the students learn best from each other.

The Motto of the College is Noblesse Oblige. This roughly translated from the original French suggests that whoever claims to be noble must conduct himself nobly. That is, a person is expected to act in a fashion that conforms to one's position, and the reputation he has earned.

The College has trained some of the finest minds in the country. Our students are represented in every walk of national life including politics, the armed forces, administration, art, entertainment, medicine, sports and the law. These representatives are spread in the different parts of the world carrying with them the values of the institution as enshrined in the College Motto.

The College welcomes the contribution of the alumni not just in material terms but through the passing on of healthy traditions to ennoble the present.

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

Raja Anand Singh of Mankapur
President - BIA

The purpose of modern education is to provide the pupils with opportunities that can develop them into global citizens. Our primary aim is to build character and transform our pupils into persons of integrity. Traditional Indian values, morals and ethics are ingrained in the young minds even as contemporary world class educational practices and pedagogies are employed. Participation in outdoor games is encouraged while turning bookish knowledge into delightful projects and activities is the hallmark of the education we provide. Our teachers are fully capable of turning ordinary topics into memorable learning experiences. We have all the infrastructure and technology required to provide an atmosphere that is reasonably conducive to education. What scholars choose to do with the opportunities available is quite a different matter, and entirely up to them.

Colvin Taluqdars' College has been providing the society with brilliant minds in every field for the past 130 years, or more, and we continue to turn out scholars who are the pride of our nation. We hope that the new students will realize their full human and creative potential in the years that they are in our charge, and continue to contribute to society.

MESSAGE FROM THE SECRETARY CUM MANAGER

*“Education is not a preparation for life; education is life itself”
~ John Dewey*

Kr. Manish Vardhan Singh

A country's progress is shaped in her classrooms.

Innovation, Progressiveness, Excellence - these three words reflect the quality of education imparted at Colvin Taluquadar's College. Our efforts have always been aimed at developing leadership qualities and initiative among our students, preparing them to shoulder responsibilities readily and maintain a high degree of honour and probity in public life.

We have an excellent academic programme, handled by highly qualified staff, balancing conceptual and skill-enhancing activities with deep theoretical knowledge provided in the classrooms. We never fail to recognise scholars who push the boundaries of their knowledge and understanding by setting practical and realistic targets, and achieving them. Experiential learning is stressed at.

While academic excellence may be our major concern, the College is devoted to the all round development of the students in order to prepare them for life, groom them to face the challenges of tomorrow, and encourage them to be socially relevant. Numerous sports facilities and clubs are available to the students for individual and group activities in order to provide a platform for enhancing their social, physical, spiritual, literary and cultural skills, thus strengthening their individual abilities while imparting a strong team spirit.

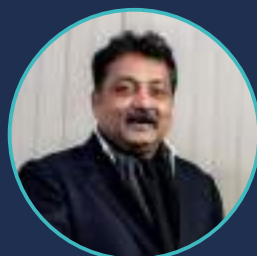

The college provides a matrix of inter and intra school sports activities. Students are trained in Swimming, Football, Cricket, Athletics, Tennis, Shooting, Archery, Volleyball, Horse Riding, Basketball, Table Tennis, Chess and Badminton.

Our endeavour is to turn out young men who can not only face life's challenges but also overcome them with ease.

MESSAGE FROM THE PRINCIPAL

Colvin Taluqdars' College has a history of over 130 years. Consequently, generations after generations of students have expressed varied feelings about the way in which this school has influenced their lives. Colvin means different things to different people from different generations. As I take over the reins of the school, I find myself torn between the responsibility of systematically arranging, integrating and preserving the past traditions and recalibrating the existing processes and procedures to accommodate the scholastic and aspirational needs of the present and future generations.

For one, Colvin has no dearth of infrastructural resources. In fact, there is hardly a school in Lucknow that has half the facilities that Colvin offers. Yet, I must admit, from the little I have gathered, that there are quite a few areas in which a substantial amount of thought has to go in. Students who just need a school that is convenient and comfortable should be ready for some very demanding assignments and tasks. Teachers have to be prepared for a round of training and upgradation since the National Curriculum Framework has to be implemented in the best interests of education.

The way forward is certainly not going to be easy. All stake-holders will have to chisel and align their mind sets with the New Education Policy in order to achieve all realistic targets in their respective domains. A lot of us will have to work out of our skins, particularly those for whom coming to school is just a matter of habit. The teaching and learning outcomes must be determined and systematically assessed, with prompt remediations thrown in, where required. Teacher and taught must make their attendance count.

Education is incomplete if a child is unable to read, infer, write in his natural voice, speak fluently and calculate; if knowledge cannot be applied in real life to raise the lot of the poor and downtrodden; if the students leaving the portals of our school are unable to sing, play musical instruments, laugh, dance, draw, paint, debate on relevant issues and discuss ideas in an atmosphere of cordiality, it is his school that will be blamed.

We have to work not only on bodies and minds but also on the spirit. We have to weed out ideas that are incongruous with the new world and cling on to those that give us our identities. Knowledge that is confined to textbooks is only a starting point. We have to make sure that we develop the requisite skills that will help us hold our own in the rapidly changing world. We must transform ourselves from an overly superstitious, gullible lot to reasonably scientific people who live by reason and are, eventually, an asset to society. Let us not forget that in every time and every age, we have an obligation towards society.

ANJUMAN HOUSE

The Anjuman Boarding House is a spacious building with the playground at the centre and the common room and the Dining Hall set opposite to each other along with a 6 bed infirmary, The delectable menu offers food that is hygienic, wholesome and tasty. Both non vegetarian and vegetarian dishes are offered. Above all, the Boarding House inculcates a sense of discipline and self confidence in the pupils who learn to live as a community and stand up for one another. Gentlemanly behaviour, manners and etiquette are practiced to ensure that the students are in a position to feel confident about themselves in up-market, aristocratic and international scenarios, or while studying or working abroad.

The College has two more Boarding Houses, Avadh and Hind, which are not being used presently but which can be spruced up in no time to accommodate more students, if required.

CENTRAL LIBRARY BUILDING

The Central Library of the College has been revamped. Besides the routine repairs to the building, new books and facilities have been added. The AN Ram Conference Room has been brought up exclusively for meetings and conferences.

Colvin Taluqdars' College retains its distinction as a premier residential College. Over the years, it has been found appropriate to admit day-scholars to the institution, who can take advantage of the massive infrastructure and the world class education that it imparts.

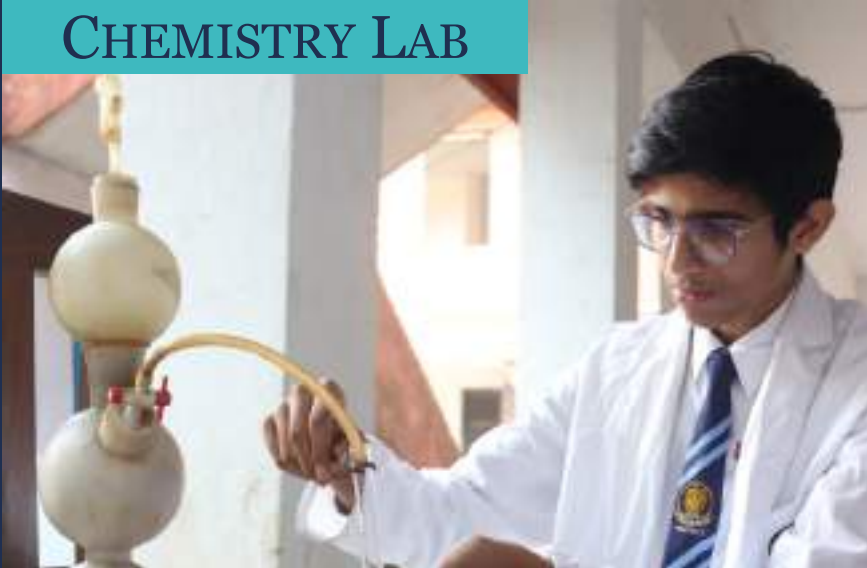

SENIOR BLOCK

Colvin Taluqdars' College is well-known for its Indo British Architecture, its extensive playfields, its range of sports facilities, spacious class rooms, the Boarding Houses, and its gardens and groves offering a green and pollution free atmosphere with serene landscapes. Sprawling lush green grounds spread over 60 acres of land in the heart of Lucknow set it apart from other congested schools mushrooming in the city. Added to this is its glorious history and place of pride as a heritage building and the picture perfect campus, its large, airy, and well-lit classrooms, well-stocked library, and well equipped laboratories that are regularly upgraded to keep up to the level we have set for ourselves.

LABORATORIES

TATA CLASSEdge

COMPUTER LAB

PHYSICS LAB

and much more...

The iconic heritage building called 'The Main Block' has a pristine look. It accommodates the college offices, audio-visual rooms, the Principal's office, the middle and senior classes. On the other side of the main block we have our Chemistry, Biology, and Physics laboratories. The BP Halwasia Memorial Building, beside the approach road to the Principal's Residence, is the Computer Laboratory. A Robotics Lab is also being planned to provide practical training in Cyber Security, Coding, Drone Technology, Robotics and Electronics.

JUNIOR BLOCK

Pre Primary and Primary Classes are held in the building to the right of the Library building. The Junior school has a Headmistress who looks after the Academic and Extra Curricular Activities. In recent times, Colvin Taluqdars' College has started admitting girl students as well and they can continue studying till Class XII. The Junior Block has an auditorium which is often used for Junior School programmes. A separate Activity Centre has also been created to develop skills in the students at an early age. There is an exclusive Library curated with books designed to interest children and inculcate the habit of reading. The Junior Block has its own computer Lab and smart classes using Tata Class Edge technology and content.

Teachers use the playway system to develop motor skills, facilitate cognitive development, social and emotional intelligence among the tiny tots. We take the best practices from diverse methodologies and try to balance the development of the left brain along with the right brain, the focus at all times being on holistic development.

SPORTS FACILITIES

FULLY EQUIPPED SHOOTING RANGE

Colvin's shooting range has fresh aiming points and state of the art air-pistols and air-guns. Along with the safety kit and noise-cancellation ear covers, the scholars can practice target shooting under safe guidance.

ARCHERY RANGE

Our all new archery range has the latest Genesis Bows and Arrows along with the complete safety kit in order to help the scholars develop their focal strength in the safest possible way.
